

Role Title: Egg Head
Team: LEAVE NO TRACE
Department: Operations

Dates Required: Year round.

Ideal Skills:

- Good computer skills: word processing, spreadsheets, project management
- Some education, publishing or editing qualifications and/or experience would be great
- Writing and communication skills
- Design, create and/or requisition print assets
- Social media promotional experience
- OR - a willingness to learn all of these skills in a basic sense

Training Provided: Instructions on what kinds of education assets and programs are needed. If you have the necessary creative talent we can train you on how to effectively communicate via social media and design software skills.

Amenities Provided: A modest budget can be allotted for e.g. print materials, meals and showers (if working) on site.

Team Description:

We return the paddock to its former glory and keep a record of how well each theme camp upholds the LNT principle.

We educate our community on how we can leave no trace of our activities and festivities at Matong State Forest.

In doing so we support participants to practice self-reliance and civic responsibility.

Role Description:

We need someone in this role to manage the educational side of Leave No Trace. Having a dedicated education person ensures our message is consistent, and allows a fresh brain to come up with creative ideas to get the message to the masses. The only limit is your innovative mind.

What we envision in this role is someone who can help the team lead engage with the educational side of things online; includes social media, email campaigns, such as videos, print media, site signage, as well as coming up with novel ways to engage the community at large – especially in the run-up to the event.

The primary aim is to bring to life the LNT motto: “Nothing Hits the Ground.” This means we do our best to make sure participants already know when they come in the gates how to avoid MOOP becoming MOOP.

Ideally we want someone who can create an education strategy and follow it through. Depending on what kind of job you do, this role might not be needed next year.
